Pilot Translational Research & Innovative Core Grant Program.
This program will support projects focused on applying discoveries generated during research in the laboratory, and in preclinical studies, to the development of trials and studies in humans. The program also promotes the establishment of new, innovative cores with a clear translational focus, to build a local or networked infrastructure. There are 3 grant types within this program: Translational Research Grant ($60,000); Mentored Translational Research Grant ($60,000); Innovative Core Grant ($50,000). LOIs will be accepted June 29 - July 20. For more details, visit the website or contact Kat Persons.

The College of Medicine Office of Research is proud to share the FY 2019 Research Annual Report. The FY 2019 Research Annual Report of the UC College of Medicine tracks our latest research progress, highlights our outstanding researchers, and recognizes the successes of our research faculty during this past year. For environmental and cost savings purposes, copies of the report are available electronically only. The report is also available on our website. The FY 2019 Research Annual Report highlights data from July 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019.

Embrace Gratitude.
Gratitude is an essential part of building happiness. It helps us realize what we have and helps puts situations into perspective. Gratitude is the expression of being thankful and having an attitude of appreciation. Science tells us that grateful people are typically happier people. Being grateful makes us more optimistic and reduces negativity, and that is a tremendous reason to make acts of gratitude a daily habit. This week try to think about what you are thankful for at least once a day. When you begin to practice gratitude and start to notice your daily world from a point of gratitude you will be amazed at all we take for granted.
